Day 2-3 Weather Hazards

Valid: 0800 Fri - 0800 Sun

Hazardous Weather

Thunderstorms are expected to erupt Friday afternoon and evening. Some of these storms will be severe and drop very heavy rain, so be prepared for an active end to the week. The heavy rain may create localized flooding problems.

Hazardous Weather

We will see mostly sunny skies on Thursday. Temperatures will be very warm, a few degrees above normal. There will be just enough moisture to allow a few isolated thunderstorms in area mountains. Winds will be from the west at 10 to 20 mph.

It will be a hot Thursday afternoon across west Texas and southeast New Mexico. Isolated thunderstorms are expected this afternoon and this evening with brief gusty winds the main threat.

Hazardous Weather

A hot day is in the works for the Rio Grande Valley and Deep South Texas today. Temperatures continue their upwards trend, with highs pushing into the lower 90s across the lower Valley and nearing the century mark across the western counties. Heat index values or "feels like" values will range from 105 to 109 this afternoon. Be sure to drink plenty of water if you're going to be outside. Partly cloudy skies can be expected with southeast winds of 10 to 15 mph this morning increasing to around 20 mph by this afternoon. Isolated showers and thunderstorms are possible along the coast and across the coastal waters.
